

Local guys get a turn

Look for the new owners of Church Street Station to make an extra effort to keep locals abreast of their effort to revitalize the downtown Orlando development. "We've been here a long time, and we're not going anywhere," said Daryl Carter, 38, who grew up in Orlando. Maury Carter, his father, has been a local real estate investor for nearly 40 years. Robert I. Kling, another partner in F.F. South & Co., has been in town about 10 years. The previous owner was a London-based company with no real local ties.