ORLANDO - Maury L. Carter & Associates Inc. and Crossman & Company recently hosted two fundraising events for Desire Street Ministries, a New Orleans-based, non-profit organization that revitalizes impoverished neighborhoods through spiritual and community development. The firms organized sponsorships for the two events, which raised more than $110,000 for the organization.

Danny Wuerffel, executive director for Desire Street Ministries and former University of Florida 1996 national championship quarterback, gave keynote presentations at a breakfast event at the University Club, a luncheon at First Baptist of Orlando and a pastors' meeting at Purpose Orlando's headquarters.

"This was one of the most successful fundraisers I have ever been a part of," said Wuerffel.

Daryl M. Carter, president of Maury L. Carter & Associates Inc., praised Wuerffel and associate Shane Matthews for their work with the organization. "They gave it all on the field and now work to help those in need," he said.

"It was a huge success thanks to all our donors and supporters who attended," said John M. Crossman, president of Crossman & Company.
