

ORLANDO SENTINEL

February 18-24, 2008

Fundraisers

Two of Orlando's best known commercial real estate companies, Maury L. Carter & Associates Inc. and Crossman & Co., organized and hosted events that raised more than $110,000 for Desire Street Ministries. The New Orleans-based nonprofit works to revitalize impoverished neighborhoods through spiritual and community development. Danny Wuerffel, executive director for Desire Street Ministries and a former University of Florida quarterback and Heisman Trophy winner, gave keynote presentations at a breakfast event in the University Club in Orlando, a luncheon at First Baptist of Orlando and a pastors' meeting at Purpose Orlando's headquarters. Shane Matthews, another former UF quarterback and current head coach for Team Florida of the All American Football League, also made an appearance.
